MAYSVILLE MAN HONORED.

Mr. Clarence Wood, of Maysville, was on Wednesday selected on the resolutions committee of the Democratic convention at Louisville. This is quite an honor to Maysville, as well as to Mr. Wood, and his many friends extend to him heartiest congratulations.

Maysville is not backward in having sons who do things and this latest honor calls to mind that Maysville produced the present United States District Attorney for this district.

To those who know Clarence Wood it is no surprise that he should be selected for so important a committee and while it is an honor to him and to us, it is likewise an endorsement of the sound judgment of those who selected the committee members.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

Bids will be received until September 6, for building an addition to the Eastland school building. Plans and specifications can be seen at my office.

SETS NEW LEAGUE RECORD.

"Muck" McGraynor, the leading pitcher of the Colonels, set a new O. S. L. record that will probably stand for several years by winning from the Frankfort Lawmakers Tuesday. This win is the fourteen consecutive victory for the curly-haired pitcher and exceeds the record of thirteen, made by Test, of the Portsmouth Cobblers. This victory gives Mac a record of fourteen won and one lost, or an average of .930. He lost the first game of the season to the Charleston crew by the score of 1 to 0 and since that time has not had a single defeat registered against him and no doubt he will win several more games before the season ends and set a real record for the baseball world to ponder over.

REGULARS VS. MANCHESTER.

The Maysville Regulars are practicing hard these fine fall afternoons, getting ready for the game with the fast Manchester team Sunday at League Park. The Regulars have been defeated by the Manchester crew and are thirsty for the blood of the boys who live in the town that makes buttons of pearl. They say the main reason that they lost the contest with the up-river gang the last time that they met was the lack of practice, so they are now working hard and think that they can win this time. Manager Lee Dinger will probably use James Frost, the star twirler of the Regulars, against the Manchester bunch, and if James is right they will have to go some to trim him.

MAGISTRATE'S COURT.

Squire Fred W. Bauer's time was occupied all Wednesday morning in trying the case of the commonwealth vs. J. E. Reed, charged with harboring an escaped prisoner. After listening to the witnesses and wrangling of various lawyers on the points of the case, the jury got hungry and declared the defendant not guilty. Reed was charged with assisting Tom Brewer, a fugitive prisoner, to make his escape.

WHO WILL WIN?

IS IMPORTANT QUESTION IN $2,400.00 PRIZE CONTEST—THREE DAYS OF 50,000 OFFER.

The one big problem now confronting the people of Maysville and surrounding country is "Who will be the two automobile winners in the Daily Bulletin-Public Ledger automobile contest?" Scores of predictions have been offered, astrologers, palmists and exponents of the occult sciences have even been consulted by some in an endeavor to obtain some inkling of what the result will be. Yet all these quests avail them naught, for the final outcome is as much as ever in doubt.

In frenzied efforts to eliminate as much of this doubt as possible, candidates all over the Daily Bulletin-Public Ledger territory are scouring the communities ceaselessly. From the waking hours of morn until the day is done these ambitious young women are fighting the battle courageously, never pausing, but keeping on and on, that the tide of favor will sweep toward them.

Such scenes as these are seldom witnessed. Imagine dozens of young women, each thrilled with the spirit of conquest, striving mightily for the supremacy in this race. Obstacles that might even deter strong-minded men, they push aside as nothing. Their eyes are set on the final goal, and ever onward they proceed, nip and tuck.

One candidate wrote yesterday: "I am working at the fastest clip of which I am capable, but the time seems to fly even faster." And that about covers every candidate in the field. All of them have an equal opportunity, and none can say they have earned a victory until the result is announced on September 11, 1915. The aspirants for automobiles are with one accord prosecuting their chances vigorously, and many, because they have no chances because of their present standings as published, are going to spring such big surprises that the too-confident ones will go down to defeat. Over confidence is the biggest handicap under which a candidate could labor. This unwelcome attribute causes more regret and disappointment than anything else in a campaign of this sort. The only way to be sure of winning is to spend every possible minute searching for subscriptions, which, as far as can be judged, and if the reports are to be believed, is what every candidate is doing with a vim.

And see what there is at the top for the plucky ones. Two luxurious automobiles, each the embodiment of refinement, of quality and general all-round classiness. These cars will make their new owners proud. No luxury encompasses the delights of a motor car, and these particular automobiles that will be given free as prizes, stand out in emminent splendor. Right here in Maysville remains territory that has never been touched. No candidate has made a thorough scientific canvass of the city, and there are hundreds of people who have never been approached.

The last club offer of extra votes—the last club offer of the campaign—makes a rapid rise easy. Consider the value of clubs now and note the liberal votes is allows on subscriptions. And then, click your jaws with determination. The time is short, only a few more days is all that is left to go—yet any candidate can make herself a winner in that time. Make these days the most active of any that have gone before, that victory may crown your efforts. And when the sun sets for the last time then you can reflect contentedly that yours was a mighty effort well put forth.

Remember, the 50,000 offer ends next Saturday night. A big effort this week may land the automobile for you.

WANTS DIVORCE.

Wednesday morning in the office of Circuit Clerk James Key the following suit for divorce was filed: Lizza Purdon vs. James L. Purdon.

The petition says that the plaintiff was married to the defendant in May, 1913, and lived as man and wife until February, 1915, when without just cause the defendant abandoned the plaintiff. The plaintiff also charges cruel and inhuman treatment and states that they have one child, Lurilda, aged about 2 years, whose support and education she asks the defendant to pay, as he is drawing wages to the amount of $7 weekly at his father's sand pit. She asks that she be given alimony in the sum of $20 monthly and be granted her maiden name of Lizza Fife.

Mrs. Dettie Trisler returned home Wednesday morning from Cincinnati, having been called there to the bedside of her mother, Mrs. T. S. Stevens, who is somewhat improved.

A WIND STORM WON'T CLEAN A RUG

Throw a carpet or rug over a clothesline and a cyclone coming along cannot blow out the dirt. But if you use a broom and carpet beater to loosen the dirt, the wind would speedily carry away the dust and dirt, leaving the rug or carpet as clean as a whistle. That is the principle upon which the

"MILLIONS FOR MINES AND SUBMARINES; NOT A CENT FOR SHIPS OR STATE ARMIES."

Washington, September 1.—"Millions for mines and submarines to protect our coasts, but not a cent for battleships or state armies," was the deft utterance by House Leader Kitchin to the program of President Wilson for a rehabilitation of the nation's defenses.

Senator Kern declared that his state and the middle west generally would not stand for anything like a half-billion appropriation, but would insist upon very little more than the usual preparation for the support of the army and navy which he said was already totaling a large sum annually. While the President will not ask for any such sum as a half-billion dollars, his recommendations will involve an expenditure largely in excess of what Congress has been in the habit of providing and so large that the question of how to raise the revenue with which to provide it will become a serious problem. One of the President's closest advisers said that the President does not think the international situation has so cleared up that the United States should place its chief reliance on its isolated position alone. His careful study of the history of the countries now at war has taught him the frightful lesson of unpreparedness, and the President, this statesman said, is ready to press upon Congress with all the power he has the duty of making the country prepared.

To obtain this position requires a large expenditure of money and the President believes the time is at hand when the nation's purse must be loosed for that patriotic purpose. The President told visitors that he does not intend that this shall be considered as a party question. He will appeal to Republicans just as much as Democrats and from Republicans he expects to gain more than he will lose from the opposition of the small navy men in Congress and the extreme pacifists. He will go personally before Congress and explain the nation's needs and demand that he be supported in ungrudging measure.

PETROGRAD PREPARES FOR THE EVACUATION OF RIGA STRONGHOLD.

London, September 1.—The Germans continuing their efforts to fold back the two extreme Russian wings in the Courland and southeastern Galicia, are meeting stubborn resistance by the Russians.

A message from Lodz in Russian Poland states that Field Marshal Von Hindenburg has launched a million men, including huge forces of cavalry, against the Russian position on the Niemen and the Bohr and that a terrific battle is raging around Friedrichstadt, the key to Riga.

The news that vast forces have been diverted to this section enabling the Germans to regain the offensive, which was lost recently through Russian success, has caused pessimism in military circles here for results to the Russians.

It is feared that unless large forces can be so disposed by the Grand Duke Nicholas that they will be in a position to strike at the German flank, Friedrichstadt can not be held. In the event of its loss, Riga, it is believed, could not be held, and semi-official advices from Petrograd are to the effect that the Russian people are to be prepared for the evacuation of this city and naval base.

TABLE SYRUP FROM WASTE WATERMELONS.

Washington, D. C.—A delicious table syrup can be made from watermelons and affords to the farmer, according to the fruit-juice specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, a convenient means of using the surplus watermelons which otherwise are allowed to spoil in the field. Such syrup has been made by farmers in a small way in various parts of the south, and the Department endeavored to work out exact methods of making it as a possible by-product from surplus melons. This syrup can be used immediately or can be bottled hot in sterilized jars and kept just as is done in the canning of fruit. It is reddish brown in color, very sweet and well flavored and will serve most of the purposes for which syrup is used in the home. It has been tried with satisfactory results in making ginger cake, homemade candy and as a sweetening and flavoring in ice cream.

As the specialists point out, while the juice of commercial watermelons such as the "Tom Watson," contain only an average of about 7 per cent of sugar, or less than many other fruit juices, the ease with which the juice can be pressed out partly offsets the low sugar content. The method described below calls only for utensils found in every household:

Directions for Making Watermelon Table Syrup.

Remove the pink flesh and seeds from the rind of sweet, fully ripe melons. Crush the flesh with a potato masher or by running it through a meat chopper. Place the crushed pulp and seed in cloth bags and squeeze out the juice, which flows out readily. About five-sixths of the pulp will squeeze out as juice. About thirteen gallons of the juice will make one gallon of syrup. This amount of juice can ordinarily be secured from ten watermelons weighing from twenty-two to twenty-five pounds each.

The juice is then boiled down in a syrup in an ordinary preserving kettle. The juice boils without much foaming until it begins to thicken, when the fire should be slackened to prevent foaming and burning. The red coloring matter in the juice coagulates during boiling and part of it rises to the surface where it can be removed by skimming. The remainder floats about in the juice, forming red particles which gather near the top. Toward the last of the boiling the syrup must be watched constantly. If the housewife has a candy thermometer she should take the syrup from the fire as soon as it reaches a temperature of 220 degrees Fahrenheit, otherwise she should let it cook until a small sample on cooling is about as thick as maple syrup.

When the boiling has finished, the syrup can be set aside to cool in covered vessels or can be poured while hot into and sealed in cans or glass containers.

Where a cider press is available the melons can be cut into pieces and arranged on the press so that the pressure will extract the juice of the pulp before it presses the rind. The juice of the rind is not so rich in sugar, and experiments with rind juice alone indicate that it is not suitable for syrup.

To Remove Red Coloring Matter. If it is desired to make syrup free from red particles, start the syrup boiling and when some of the coagulated matter has been removed by skimming, transfer the juice to tall glass jars or other tall containers and allow it to settle and cool for a few hours. This allows the red particles to settle to the bottom. The upper part of the juice then can be poured off and boiled into syrup.

TRAVELS BY PARCEL POST.

Jackson, Ky., September 1.—"I don't think this shipment is legal, but I've got it and must dispose of it."

This note, signed by K. T. Sebastine, a mail clerk, was pinned neatly to a 3-year-old girl, who was received at the postoffice here today, having come by parcel post from R. K. Madden, at Caney, Ky.

COMPLEX MARKETING SYSTEM.

WHOLESALE DISTRIBUTION OF FRUITS AND VEGETABLES OFTEN APPEARS TO TAKE CIRCUITOUS ROUTE—ECONOMIC CONDITIONS DO NOT COURT MARKET PARASITES—LOSSES AND WASTES DISCUSSED.

Washington.—The present abundance of fresh vegetables and fruits brings with it the perennial necessity for their rapid, economical distribution and for encouraging a generous and steady consumption. The machinery for moving these food products is complex and retail dealers are often accused of not following closely the wholesale market quotations; that in times of glutted markets they do not cut prices severely and aid in a rapid movement from producer to consumer. But the responsibility for slow and uneconomic movement into consumption channels is difficult to trace. The large class of food distributors known as "middlemen" are often accused of levying, arbitrarily, a heavy tribute on all foods passing from the producer to the consumer. The attention of the public has been frequently directed to increased costs of products rather than service rendered. The new United States Department of Agriculture Bulletin No. 267, Methods of Wholesale Distribution of Fruits and Vegetables on Large Markets, does not indict the "middlemen" as a class, although it points out some of the abuses in the trade. As a matter of fact, say the Department's specialists, when discussing the present marketing organization, economic laws would not permit the long continued existence of a marketing agency which was solely a parasite.

Several important factors have contributed to the establishment of many middlemen as necessary agents in the present system of marketing. Production during the last decade has increased greatly and improved methods and facilities for handling the increase have been introduced. "Keeping pace with increased production has come the demand of customers for more elaborate and efficient service. Seldom is the fact considered that service can become a very expensive luxury. With the widening of the distance between the city and the sources of its fruit and vegetable supplies there has arisen the necessity for special agencies to meet the changed conditions.

The present distributive machinery, with all its strong points and its weaknesses, has been created of necessity, and it has weathered the storm of much adverse criticism. Every part of the country is now enjoying perishable goods of the most remote districts. Any readjustment of present market practices must be based upon the fact that some agency must continue to perform the functions of the present-day middleman.

The problems involved in handling goods through a large market differ greatly from those of production. Usually one man or one firm can not handle both production and distribution and succeed at both. The vast volume of business transacted at large market centers makes necessary some special agencies which can devote all their energies to distribution. Especially does the machinery for efficient marketing become necessary when perishable goods are to be handled. Commodities of this sort must be moved rapidly, must be distributed evenly and from their very nature permit of no weakness in distributive machinery if they are to be sold at a profit.

Some Causes of Losses and Wastes. With the perishable nature of all large part of the fruits and vegetables marketed there must be some loss. This often totals higher than the farmer realizes. For instance, according to the department's market specialists, the loss on such commodities as strawberries, peaches and grapes sometimes amounts to 30 or 40 per cent before they reach the hands of the retail trade. Losses due to spoiling may be the result of the shipper's sending overripe or diseased fruit, or failing to give proper attention to packing, to loading or to bracing the packages in the car. Sometimes the railroad is at fault. Delay in transit, improper ventilation or refrigeration or unnecessarily rough handling of cars may contribute to rapid deterioration of the shipment on arrival.

The lack of proper refrigeration facilities at distributing centers is a cause of much loss. When produce moves slowly, there is often much spoilage before complete sales can be made. Rough handling during unloading or carting is another important cause of loss. As a matter of fact, the opportunities for losses due to the spoiling of commodities are so manifold that it is impossible to enter into a complete discussion of them.

It is always well to bear in mind the really serious side of losses and wastes. The spoiling of a dozen cantaloupes, a basket of grapes or a crate of strawberries represents an absolute loss to the community. No benefit accrues to producer, distributor or consumer from such a condition. The loss occurring at this point must be borne by both producer and consumer, and in a great many cases the distributor must bear his part of the burden. The department's specialists think in many cases losses and wastes are entirely too heavy a tax on food distribution and that the elimination of unnecessary wastes would do as much toward effecting permanent, substantial economies in marketing and distributing as any readjustment of present marketing methods could do. The fact that a large percentage of these losses can be avoided by proper grading, packing and shipping, together with prompt, efficient handling while the goods are in process of distribution, make it imperative that this subject should be given special consideration by those interested in the efficient marketing of farm crops.

A better understanding by the farmer of the complex marketing machinery would enable him to intelligently choose between the many channels through which his fruits and vegetables might be marketed. The new bulletin aims to make clear to the layman the rather intricate machinery of the market and deals with methods of receiving, inspection, rejections, terminal distribution and sales methods, the broker, auction sales, carlot wholesalers, commission merchants, jobbing sales, public markets, etc. This bulletin may be had free by those interested upon application to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

DEMOCRATIC EDITORS AND DEMOCRATIC "PROSPERITY."

It is not surprising that the Democratic press of the country has little to say about "prosperity," other than that due to the war. With a few exceptions, Democratic editors, like most other editors, are intellectually honest. They know that the enactment of the Democratic tariff law brought an industrial depression that was rapidly developing into a panic. They know that reduction or removal of tariff duties opened our markets to foreign producers, thus giving employment to foreign labor and foreign capital and depriving American labor and American capital of employment to a corresponding degree. They know that after the enactment of the Democratic tariff law a balance of trade that had been in our favor was changed to a balance against us until the Eurol pean war broke out.

The industrial depression which followed Democratic legislation was personally impressed upon Democratic editors by local merchants who cut down advertising expenses not from desire, but from necessity. Delinquent subscribers from whom collections were difficult left no doubt in the minds of Democratic editors that the depression was real and not merely psychological. Those editors know that while Underwood and Simmons and other leaders of the administration were living in plenty on fixed salaries, the business men of their home towns were walking the floor at night trying to devise means to keep bankruptcy notices off the doors of their stores and shops and factories.

Democratic leaders are manifestly disappointed by the attitude of the Democratic press. Drawing fat salaries themselves, they feel no industrial depression. To them the period of prosperity is real—the most realistic prosperity they ever enjoyed. They can't understand the editor whose credit has gone bad at the bank because collections come hard in the counting room.

But the editor has the last word. When the prosperity proclamation comes to his desk from the luxuriously furnished office of a pampered administration defender, he wants to be shown. He wants the administration to send one of its efficiency experts to his town to show the retail merchants they were mistaken in thinking that their books showed business to be bad. He wants one of those experts to convince him that his business has been as good as it was under Republican administration. Until that can be proven, the Democratic editor will be silent on the results of Democratic tariff legislation. All of them will be silent except the few to whom falsehood is more attractive than the truth.

ANKLE WATCH LATEST FAD.

New York, September 1.—Listen, girls, and you who have passed beyond the girlhood stage, put away your wrist watch, for it is now out of date. The latest position for the time-piece is strapped to the ankle. Several models of the ankle watch, the latest thing in jewelry, were shown at the Jewelers' Convention, held here in the Grand Central Palace.

The watch is fastened to the ankle by means of a dainty strap of leather, gold or silver. It is said to be convenient as well as beautiful.

A writer tells us that "some men are so anxious to be driven to drink that they phone for a taxi." Wrong again, old sport; they don't even wait for the taxi.

HIGH SCHOOL.

On Tuesday morning, September 7, we are anticipating the largest enrollment of Maysville's High School. During the last seven years the enrollment has grown from 67 to 205, and we are expecting an enrollment of about 220 the ensuing school year.

In addition to the regular scientific and classical courses offered, there will be courses in cooking, sewing, bookkeeping, stenography, typewriting and commercial law and business forms.

I am expecting to be in my office throughout this week from 1:30 to 5 o'clock, at which time I will be pleased to confer with any parents or High School students relative to their work the coming year. Should any one care to discuss these matters at any other time, call up the office and we will try and arrange for a meeting at the convenience of both parties.

There will be nine regular teachers in the High School, the new teachers being Miss Florence Shaw, graduate of Ohio State University, head of the English department; Miss Rosine Dickman, graduate of Washington University, St. Louis, assistant in English and Latin; Mr. W. M. Jones, graduate of Rochester Business Institute, head of the Commercial department, and Mr. R. N. Hoefflich, graduate of Yale, head of the Mathematics department.

Just here I wish to make a statement relative to Mr. Hoefflich. Being one of our home boys, there will likely be diverse opinions as to his qualifications and capabilities. After having graduated from Phillips-Andover, one of the most noted preparatory schools of the east, he entered Yale, where he was graduated with distinction. After his election to the position in our High School, he took work in Chicago University under two of the leading mathematicians of the middle west, Mr. George Myers, author of text books in mathematics and a teacher in the College of Education of Chicago University, and Mr. Ernest R. Breslich, where he got the very latest ideas in teaching secondary mathematics.

Just as Miss Threlkeld, one of our home girls, began her teaching career in the High School here and is admitted by our people to be one of the very best teachers we have ever had, so we anticipate that Mr. Hoefflich, one of our home boys, will win like favor with his home people. Whether or not he will succeed as well as she is yet to be decided, but we feel quite sure that he has all the elements of success and it takes no wide stretch of imagination to predict for him a successful administration of the Mathematics department of our High School.

KOPSCH GETS BAIL.

Washington, September 1.—Gustav Kopsch, the young German recently arrested charged with making drawings and photographs of coast fortifications in Virginia, was given a preliminary hearing before U. Ina Claire and Theodora Roberts in "THE WILD GOOSE CHASE" at the Washington Theater Friday Evening

Admission Only 5c and 10c. Read the Following Synopsis of This Famous Comedy By William C. De Mille

Ina Claire, who is undoubtedly the foremost American star of her age, makes her photographic debut in this picturization of one of the most charming romantic comedies ever written by William C. De Mille. Miss Claire has recently entered into a contract with the Lasky Company by the terms of which she will appear each year in a certain number of photodramatic offerings, at the same time continuing her legitimate stellar career as a Broadway celebrity.

"The Wild Goose Chase" is the love story of a college boy and a charming girl. At about the time they first meet and fall instantly in love with one another each is ordered by stern parents to marry an unknown mate. The reason for this is that the grandfathers of these two young people are two rich old gentlemen of France, and these two old men, according to European custom, offer to provide large sums of money if the young people marry one another.

To escape these enforced marriages, man and girl both leave home and join the same wandering theatrical troupe, which meets with many trials and tribulations. It is not until the very end that the young people, finally learning each other's real names, find that they have been on a wild goose chase all the time, because the very thing they desire themselves is what the grandfathers have ordered.

LOSSES AT GALLIOLI BY BRITISH

Berlin, September 1.—The British employed 100,000 men in their attack on Turkish positions on the Gallipoli peninsula last Saturday and Sunday, according to dispatches from Constantinople. The same dispatches estimate that since August 6, the British losses have been in excess of 50,000. According to correspondents the killed among the British troops in the fighting of August 28 and 29 included about 600 officers. The cavalry division, he declared, was almost wiped out.

It is estimated that the pensions paid to Revolutionary War veterans amounted to $70,000,000.

IMPOSSIBLE TO IDENTIFY BODIES OF GALLANT CREW OF LOST U. S. SUBMARINE F-4

Honolulu, September 1.—Several bodies which have not been identified were found in the hull of the United States submarine F-4, which sank in Honolulu bay March 25, with twenty-two men on board, and which was brought to the surface and placed in dry dock. The bodies were found in the battery compartment amidship. Searchers expressed doubt as to whether identification of any bodies found would be possible.

The bodies were found entangled in the wreckage of the submarine's interior, one body was removed. Two others were in such a poor state of preservation that the work of uncovering them is being done slowly. The finding of the bodies was announced officially by Rear Admiral C. J. Boush. He has ordered a hole cut in the forward compartment of the submarine which so far has been inaccessible.

Galveston, Texas, September 1.—Orders have been issued by Major General Bell, commanding the Second Division United States Army, to commanders of the Fourth and Nineteenth Infantry and the Sixth Cavalry to hold their commands in readiness to entrain for the border on short notice.

Orozco Killed As Common Bandit.

El Paso, Texas, September 1.—General Pascual Orozco, leader of the first revolution against President Madero and later one of Huerta's ablest generals, died the death of a common bandit on Monday when he and four Mexican companions were killed by American cowboys near Sierra Blanda, Tex., after they had robbed an American ranch house.

American officers, who know Orozco well, identified him this afternoon as one of the slain, according to advices received here from Van Horn, where the bodies have been taken.

At the time of his death Orozco was a fugitive from the American courts. On July 12 he jumped a $7,500 bond. He was charged with neutrality violation in connection with the alleged Huerta plot to start a new revolution in Mexico.

THINK SETTLEMENT OF ARABIC CASE WILL BE EFFECTED THIS WEEK.

Washington, September 1.—The diplomatic elimination of the case of the Arabic sunk by a German submarine will be effected probably before the close of the present week.

Unofficial news at the State Department that the submarine which destroyed the Arabic has been lost seemed to clarify rather than complicate the issues in that case. Officials have no direct knowledge of the loss of the submarine, but it is indicated plainly enough that Germany would be obliged if the loss were authenticated to settle on the statements which are now on the way to the State Department from Ambassador Page. Apart from this consideration, however, due weight is given to the friendly attitude of Germany before the report became current that the German submarine had been lost.

"BACK TO THE FARM" DISCOURAGED.

Stanley Basin, Idaho, is typical of numerous pioneer settlements in the west, which, in the aggregate, mean much to the growth of the entire country. There are some 200 persons in Stanley Basin—homesteaders, miners, tourists—all having business with the outside world and all desiring to receive newspapers and letters with reasonable frequency. But in this way they are handicapped. Says the Wood River (Idaho) Times:

"There had always been a mail service between Stanley Basin and Wood River since the early days. But last year the parsimonious postmaster general, unwilling to pay the $1,000 per annum asked for the service, discontinued it. The settlers hope to have the service restored."

Urged by that truly American spirit of homebuilding, and encouraged by a government that offered free homes to settlers, those people left the comforts of the more thickly settled sections of the east and went into the unproductive regions of far-off Idaho to live in rude shacks until the product of toil and privation enabled them to build houses that might properly be called homes. They gave up the joys of personal communication with relatives and friends. They went far from libraries and schools and churches and undertook, in the land of sagebrush and coyote, to establish new communities of industrious citizens in which should ultimately be founded new libraries, new schools and new churches.

But in thus going upon the frontier they reposed confidence in the maintenance of those branches of government service which enlighten the burden of the homemaker and bring some measure of cheer to those cut off from the outside world. They were entitled to believe that mail service would be continued and that each week they would receive letters, newspapers and magazines to make their secluded lives more endurable.

Stanley Basin, Idaho, has learned by experience. There are a multitude of Stanley Basins all through that section of the United States lying west of the Mississippi river. The people of these remote settlements have friends and relatives in the older communities of the east. Each and all of them, from motives of self interest as well as from a desire to promote the common welfare, should raise a voice of protest against discontinuance of mail service in those parts of the country where it is desired that new homes shall be built and new acres of cultivated soil added to our productive area. The policy pursued by this administration can not do otherwise than drive the homesteaders "back to the city."

A. J. McKelway, southern secretary of the National Child Labor Committee, predicts that the coming Congress will once and for all legislate child labor out of existence in this country. Approved, but be it remembered that the last Congress practically legislated adult labor out of existence, though not once and for all, because the Republicans are coming in again in 1917.

A MERCILESS JUDGE

One Who Shows No Favor.

A merciless judge is Father Time. Before him the weak and wanting go to the wall. Only the truth can stand. For years the following statement from a Maysville resident has withstood this sternest of all tests.

Frederick Dresel, tailor, 1233 East Second street, Maysville, says: "I was troubled with inflammation of the bladder and an annoyance from my kidneys. The passages of the kidney secretions were irregular and I had a severe pain across the small of my back which interfered with my duties. When a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box at Wood & Son's Drug Store. They gave me prompt relief."

OVER THREE YEARS LATER

Mr. Dresel said: "Since I used Doan's Kidney Pills, I have not had any kidney trouble nor have I had to take a kidney medicine in that time."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Dresel has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

BECKHAM HISSIED, WOODSON FIRED, VANSANT CANNED AT TURBULENT CONVENTION AT LOUISVILLE—STANLEY WING IN ABSOLUTE CONTROL.

Louisville, Ky., September 1.—Kentucky Democracy is rubbing its eyes this morning and wondering "where it is at."

The state platform gathering, early in the day, described as "the biggest and most enthusiastic Democratic convention ever held in Kentucky, adjourned near midnight in confusion, and along the political highway were scattered mangled remains of prohibition leaders and many other leading party men who had incurred the displeasure of the Stanley faction which, drunk with power, rode roughshod over everybody who stood in the way of absolute control of the party machinery.

Senator Beckham, the militant leader of the prohibition wing of his party, was hissed from the stage by cries of "O'Rear!" "Snake in the Grass!" "Put the Snake Out!" and other derisive yells, and failed to make the slightest impression with his protest against the arbitrary changes made in the committee organization.

Woodson Fired.

Urey Woodson, editor of the Owensboro Daily Messenger, Democratic National Committeeman from Kentucky, and long prominent in Democratic councils, was removed from his position and Col. W. B. Haldeman, of Louisville, chosen to succeed him. Mr. Woodson, like Mr. Beckham and some others, has been in the way of the Stanley faction.

Rufus H. Vansant, the state chairman, was unseated, and S. W. Hager, of Owensboro, a political antagonist of Woodson, was put in his place.

A. G. Rhea, of Russellville, and W. B. White, of Mt. Sterling, members of the state executive and state central committees from the state-at-large, were removed and were replaced by "Jim" Edwards, of Louisville, and George P. Martin, of Boyd county. "Jim" Edwards is the widely known machine politician of Louisville who was a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor.

The arbitrary changes made in these committee assignments have created wide dissension in the party and are expected to have a far-reaching effect during the campaign.

Liquor Men in Control.

The proceedings seemed to indicate two things: First, a well-planned determination to eliminate every man who was in any way prominently connected with the Beckham wing of the party, and secondly, to leave no stone unturned which would insure the control of the liquor forces over the party machinery.
